Join us for a celebration of the New Forest's Heritage presented by the people who know it best; the local community.

Left: Student artist Liz Hall's interpretation of a Roman kiln.

The New Forest Community Heritage Festival will see groups from around the Forest come together to share their current research and passion for the fascinating history of the New Forest.

The event is a perfect opportunity to find out more about heritage on your doorstep and chat with some local experts. It might even inspire you to join your local group and discover a new hobby or finally get around to getting hands on with something you've always had an interest in?
