 Like shaded lights in a monarch's hall;
 And the elf-tuned harp of the breeze is heard,
 With the thrilling tones of the viewless bird;
 And the waterfall, from the echoing steep,
 Peals like an organ his anthem deep.'*

'While hunting in the New Forest, he ran a royal hart to bay, and springing from his horse, dashed suddenly at it. He would have brought it to the ground by a cut with his short hunting sword on the hind leg, but the stag turned swiftly round and threw him. Adela, a lady of the court, seeing the danger of the King, spurred up in time to kill the deer, and save the life of her royal lover.' – Translation from a MS. Chronicle, in the Royal Library at Neuilly (640)

The 'sere and yellow leaf' is on the trees, and the foreground is brown with sober tints of autumn. A dull grey sky hangs over the landscape, and a few faggot gatherers are collecting their harvest among the fallen trees. There is much breadth and sense of distance in this work.']

- 9 'The End of a Stormy March Day'

April

- 10 'A Forest Lawn in Early April'. Alum Green
- 11 'Merry Tree and Blackthorn'
- 12 'A Calm April Evening'. Near Bank

May

- 13 'The Forest in Spring Garments'. Bramble Hill, Lyndhurst
- 14 'Highland Water'. Late May, near the old Toll Bar, Brinton Bridge

June

- 15 'The Young Fern'. Early June. Bramble Hill, Lyndhurst
- 16 'A Forest Ford'. Mid June. Near the Slab
- 17 'Forest Ditch adorned by June'. Puck Pits

July

- 18 'Midsummer'. The Cool of the Day. Warwick Slade
- 19 'A July Afternoon'. The Edge of Whitemoor

20 'A Midsummer Night'. Warwick Slade

August

21 'A wayside Garden'. Ragwort and Bell Heather on the Christchurch Road

22 'A Boggy Corner'. Vinney Ridge

December

30 'The Silence of the Forest'. Mark Ash

31 'A Winter's Night'

Paintings Illustrating Forest Life

32 'The End of the Giant'. Woodmen sawing up a fallen Beech in Knight Wood. The value of the Beech forest is now very small, and the great timber is, alas, consigned to the cottage hearth

33 'Holly Cutting for Christmas'. Near Emery Down. A considerable trade is done in holly boughs, and the few pence the holly cutter gets for his labour, together with the price of the boughs charged by the woodman, becomes a respectable figure by the time the holly reaches the shop in the London street

[34 is blank]

35 'A Rest'. An Old Fern Cutter. The fern is used as litter. And the hard work of cutting the tough fern brings in the harvest pay for the forester. He labours on, usually alone, in a great stretch of fern, with his dinner basket and old coat hung on to a bough, lest the adder should make itself at home in his bag or pocket

36 'The Charcoal Burners'. Veal and his Son at work by the light of the August Moon. The time of the 'burst' out of the pale flame, which occurs on about the third day of the fire, is selected for the incident of the picture

- 37 'A Gipsy Camp in Winter'
- 38 'A Woodcutter's Workshop' Brinton Bridge. These little out-of-door workshops are dotted about the Forest. Where so very much of the fuel consumed is from the fallen tree and broken bough
- 39 'Fern Carting'
- 40 'Fern Cutting'
- 41 'Grandfer's Cottage'. Despite the 'improvement' of cottage property in the Forest, and the ugliness and grossness of the new architecture, many an old mud and thatched cottage yet remains to add beauty to the trees under which it is built

Water Colours

- 42 'The Last Load of the Day'. Huntley Banks
- 43 'Beech Tree in November Finery'
- 44 'The Fern Cart'. November Morning
- 45 'The Promise of Spring'. Near Stoney Cross. Late March
- 46 'A September Morning'. Near the Kennels
- 47 'A Woodman's Cottage'. Holliday Hill. September
- 48 'April Shadows'. Alum Green
- 49 'Lingerings of Autumn'. Stoney Cross
- 50 'The Beginnings of December'. Stoney Cross
- 51 'Holmsley Water'. April
- 52 'Clouds Clearing off at the End of a February Day'
- 53 'A Driving Hail shower'. March
- 54 'March Smiles'. Looking towards Lyndhurst
- 55 'Fir Lake'. On the Brockenhurst Road. Early April
- 56 'The Water at Burley Lodge'. Early April
- 57 'Cottages at Gretnan Hamlet'. May
- 58 'An April shower'. Blackwool, on the Fritham Road

- 59 'A Forest Lawn'. Alum Green. July
- 60 'A Blackthorn Dy'. Near Markway Bridge
- 61 'An April Morning'. Holland's Wood, on the Brockenhurst road
- 62 'Afternoon in Early May'. Kit's Hill
- 63 'May Evening'. Bank
- 64 'The Hat of Trees on Acres down'. May
- 65 'Rent by the Storm'
- 66 'A Peep at the Isle of Wight from Acres Down'
- 67 'April Morning'. The Grove, Minstead
- 68 'Spring Evening'. Alum Green
- 69 'A September Day'. Warwick Slade
- 70 'An August Day'. Warwick Slade
- 71 'An August shower'
- 72 'A June Evening'
- 73 'Thunder Clouds'. The Race Course, Lyndhurst
- 74 'Bog Myrtle in Flower'. Early April
- 75 'Cutting Fern'. October
- 76 'A February Sunset'
- 77 'Summer Afternoon'. Queen's Mead

‘Nos. 152, 153, 158, and 162 are studies from a tree which was destroyed in June, 1873. Some gipsies on a Pic-nic party had lighted a fire in this large tree, which in the neighbourhood was called “Queen of the Beeches”; it was set fire to on Friday evening, 27th June, the next day it fell with an awful crash. The hollow in the tree would hold 3 or 4 persons’ (152)

'Gainst all thy foes, brave British oak succeed,
And Heaven defend thee at thy utmost need;
The fury of the storm, man's ruthless hand,
Thou and thy fellows, boldly, bravely stand!
The view is from the southern edge of the beautiful and picturesque portion of the forest called Birkland, and forms part of the estate of Lord Manvers. The whole of this part of the wood, once the haunt of Robin Hood, and associated with many faery and romantic legends, is kept in its wild and primitive state by the good taste of its proprietor (15)

FOREST OF ARDEN, Warwickshire

Although very little of this forest remained, the area remained a popular theme in art. Not listed here are exhibits illustrating scenes from Shakespeare's As You Like It. Out of a total of 409 over this period (taken from the same exhibition catalogues consulted here), most were of scenes (from 2.1) in the Forest of Arden (a construct combining Arden and the Ardennes Forest in France). In addition, the titles of many forest landscapes carried quotations from the play.

Could shake thee to the root – and time has been
When tempests could not. At thy firmest age
Thou hadst within thy bole solid contents
That might have ribb'd the sides and plank'd the deck
Of some flagg'd admiral; and tortuous arms,
The shipwright's darling treasure, didst present
To the four-quarter'd winds, robust and bold,
Warp'd into tough knee-timber, many a load!
But the axe spared thee.' – Cowper (110)
